Backs Truman on CIA

To the Editor: Ex-President Truman's article, "New Look at CIA's Function," deserves the full attention and thoughtful consideration of every loyal American who has the interest of America's security at heart. He should be highly commended for the courage of his convictions. Even though he may have sanctioned the creation of that agency, presented to him on a more or less salutary premise which time has shown to be false, his noble soul failed to see the Trojan horse hidden in it.

I presume he knows more about that agency than anybody in the United States. With this knowledge he can serve the American cause more gloriously now than ever. More power to him. He has started a good, patriotic work and we want to see him do something about it. The majority of Americans will back him to the hilt.

LOYAL AMERICAN.
